

EFFORTS TO DEVISE PLAN TO SAVE RUSSIA TO ALLIES

General Situation Continues Serious Source of Worry.

(International News Service.) Washington, July 9.—Exchanges between Washington and the various entente capitals on the Russian situation were continued today. Every effort is being made to work out a general plan which will save Russia to the allies and will prevent Germany, by spreading suspicion of their motives, swinging the Russian people to the side of the central powers. The general situation continues a serious source of worry to the allies. Officials here, however, expect that President Wilson's plans, when they are completely worked out, will solve the problem.

Russia again was scheduled to be the chief topic of today's cabinet meeting. Secretary of Commerce Redfield has laid before President Wilson elaborate plans designed to show just to what extent America can go toward placing Russian industry on its feet. Just what assistance can be afforded by the department of agriculture and the estimated amount of actual cash which will be needed for the economic assistance suggested has also been figured out for the president, who has on his desk since last Saturday the military plans revised by the supreme war council at Versailles, together with the suggestions of Admiral Benson, chief of operations of the navy, and Gen. March, chief of staff for the army, as to the parts the army and the navy of the United States can play in extending aid to the anti-German Russian elements.

Simply because of the very nature of the case, officials say, wild rumors of possible action must circulate. It is promised that as soon as it is possible, without revealing essential secrets to the enemy, a frank statement of the Russian plans of the United States will be forthcoming from official sources. Meanwhile there is nothing that can be said on the subject.

It is considered certain here that Germany already is perfecting her plans to tighten her grip on Russia. That she will seize Moscow under the pretext that such a move is necessary because of the murder of her ambassador is considered certain. And that this move will be followed by the taking of Petrograd is believed to be more than a possibility.

The Russian pot is boiling and must soon boil over, officials said today, and the developments of the next six weeks will determine whether the anarchy-ridden country is to be saved from Germany.

Meat Must Be Sold

Fresh meat is perishable. It must be sold within about two weeks for whatever it will bring.

A certain amount of beef is frozen for foreign shipment, but domestic markets demand fresh, chilled, unfrozen beef.

Swift & Company cannot increase prices by withholding meat, because it will not keep fresh and salable for more than a few days after it reaches the market.

Swift & Company cannot tell at the time of purchasing cattle, what price fresh meat will bring when put on sale. If between purchase and sale, market conditions change, the price of meat must also change.

The Food Administration limits our profit to 9 per cent on capital invested in the meat departments. This is about 2 cents per dollar of sales. No profit is guaranteed, and the risk of loss is not eliminated.

As a matter of fact, meat is often sold at a loss because of the need of selling it before it spoils.
